The Craft & Business of Voiceover

by James R. Alburger

Dear Art of Voice Acting Contributor:

Re: request for rights clearance

I am currently preparing a manuscript for publication with Focal Press, an imprint of Taylor & Francis. I would be grateful if you would grant me permission to use the material you have submitted for inclusion in an upcoming edition of my book, The Art of Voice Acting:

Please put an "X" to indicate your submission type(s). Submit a separate form for each contribution.

- An article or blog post discussing a technique, tip, story or other textual content
- A form, PDF file or other support material accompanying a technique or tip
- Original graphic design images intended to support a voiceover concept
- A script demonstrating a genre of voiceover copy (1 or more)
- An audio example associated with a submitted script (1 or more)
- A video example associated with a submitted script (1 or more)
- Other (describe):

Title of work: _____

The rights included in this release are non-exclusive world rights in all languages for reproduction in all forms and media, including electronic or other media now known or to be created in the future. You are granting permission for me to include your material in its entirety or edited as might be needed in the above-mentioned book and in future revisions and editions of the book published by Focal Press or its licensees or any other publisher, posting on the book's supporting web site, and in materials that accompany my workshops and training events. This release includes the right to associate a link or website posting of related audio, video or graphics that might be associated with the contribution. You will of course be credited as copyright holder and/or performer – please PRINT in clear block letters the correct wording you wish to be used. If not already provided, I also require a copy of the above material in the form of a printed document or electronic file (PDF, DOC, or MP3) for reproduction, as noted. If there is an additional copyright holder, please let me know to whom I should apply.

_____
Please PRINT your full name above as you would like to be credited in the book.

_____
Please indicate above the website URL you would like referenced in the book.

_____
Additional copyright holder (if any) for this submission. Name, Company, Address, Phone, Email

Please return a completed, signed copy of this release by postal mail or Email at your earliest convenience.

Sincerely,

I hereby grant the above rights to the materials noted above:
